

STUDENTS, KNOW YOUR RIGHTS!

This spring PARCC will once again be given to students in grades 3-8 and some high schoolers.

This test is not required for promotion or graduation. PARCC scores are not used for admission to selective enrollment high schools or colleges.

Every student has the right to refuse PARCC testing, and all you need to do to opt out of the PARCC is refuse to take the test.

You do not need a letter from your parent. The IL State Board of Education tells school districts not to accept opt out letters from parents and that students opting out must directly refuse to take the test.

When presented with the test, just say “No thank you, I refuse.” Do not log into the test on the computer or open your test booklet. You can refuse at any point during the testing window.

No school, district or state in the US has ever lost money due to students refusing state testing.

The state requires schools to give PARCC for “accountability”, but no one holds the state accountable for underfunding our schools year after year.
